Poetry

TOGETHER

No matter how rough things seem Or how difficult our challenges are
I know we can make it,
Because we stick Together.

Whenever life's problems become too tough
I know I can turn to you for guidance.
And somehow,
We'll find a solution,
Together.

Sometimes our plans
Don't work out,
And everything doesn't go exactly right.
But we make the best of it,
Together.

Whenever you need me
Know that I'm right by your side
Ready for us to face the world, Together.
— And I wouldn't want it any other way.

NANA'S CHRISTMAS

On the white lace doily is Nana's red candy dish full of melt-away mints.
It's always Nana's wish to fill our taste buds full of Christmas sweets.
She dresses in red velvet with her pinafore apron,

as she greets her family, which she adores from the oldest aunt,
down to the babies crawling on all fours.
The ham baking in the oven with pineapple, each with a centered cherry, wafts through most of the house, while we toast and make merry.
That's the picture I remember,
from many, many years ago.
I'm Nana now and my family drives here for Christmas, in rain or snow, and there are toddlers and babies galore.
"Let's welcome Old Man Christmas to my family, whom I adore!
Merry Christmas one and all,
to my children and grandchildren large and small!"

-Judith M. Vance
